

WEALTHY FARMER SUED BY WIFE FOR LARGE ALIMONY

Mrs. R. C. Campbell Asks $60,000 Alimony in Suit for Absolute Divorce Filed in Circuit Court Today.

Mrs. Mollie Campbell filed suit in the Mason Circuit Court Thursday against her husband, Mr. R. C. Campbell, asking an absolute divorce and alimony in the very large sum of $60,000.

The defendant in this action is one of Mason county's most prominent citizens and largest land owners. In her petition the wife says that the defendant is owner of 1077 acres of Mason county land located in the Washington, Sardis and Murphysville precincts and the owner of approximately $25,000 in personally consisting most of horses, mules, cattle, etc. The plaintiff says that the defendant's real estate is worth approximately $200,000.

In her petition the wife says that the defendant "has frequently threatened and attempted injury to her in such a manner as to indicate an outrageous temper in him and to make it probable dangerous to her life or to put her in danger of great bodily injury from her remaining longer with him." She also charged that "on Monday, June 26, 1922, he threatened to kill plaintiff with a revolver." Statutory grounds are also recited in the plaintiff's petition.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell were married in Mason county on February 9, 1893, and the wife says that for the past 29 years she has worked and labored with the defendant and assisted him to earn and accumulate his large property holdings. They are the parents of nine children, five of whom are living, two having attained their majority but she asks for the care and custody of the three infant children.

Attorneys B. S. Granis and O. R. Bright, of Flemingsburg, represent the wife in this action.

HEAVEN AND HELL DISCUSSED BY EVANGELIST WEDNESDAY

What the Bible Says About the Future Happiness and Punishment Is Topic at Revival Tent Wednesday Night.

What the Bible says about heaven and hell was the topic of the sermon given by Mrs. Cox Wednesday night. "Some are more willing to believe that there is a place called heaven, than they are to believe there is a hell. Some believe that heaven exists through all eternity, but that hell lasts for only a time. But the Bible speaks as plainly of one as of the other; often speaking of both in the same verse, declaring that they are of equal duration. For example Matthew the twenty-fifth chapter records the words of Jesus: 'And these shall go away into everlasting punishment, but the righteous into life eternal.'"

"The very worst class of people that the world knows anything about are going to be found in hell, but Revelation 21:8 shows that people who are too fearful and unbelieving and all liars will be there also. You need do nothing worse than simply forget or neglect God to become a victim of hell. Heaven is prepared for those who love God but hell was prepared for the devil and his angels. Heaven is characterized as a place of light and harmony; hell a place of darkness and distress. In heaven there is singing, shouting; in hell weeping, wailing, gnashing of teeth. They who give their voices in singing the popular songs of the day will be much out of tune in heaven. The rich man in hell about whom Luke tells was much concerned about the salvation of his people, but it was too late. Mothers and fathers what are you doing to get your children ready for heaven? Now is the time for you to prepare for that place of rest before it is too late. This should be your greatest concern before death. What are you doing to prepare for heaven?"

Special wind instrument duet, rendered by workers of the party was enjoyed by all.

BEECHWOOD PARK TO BE OPENED TO PUBLIC ON FRIDAY

Maysville's Beautiful Amusement Park To Throw Open Its Gates Friday Afternoon—Plenty of Entertainment Offered.

Beautiful Beechwood Park will be opened to the public Friday afternoon and thereafter each afternoon and evening during the week with all sorts of amusements and entertainment for the public. Nothing has been overlooked by the management afforded by best amusement parks in the country that can be fitted into Beechwood and the people of Maysville and vicinity are offered the most wonderful little natural park in the whole country with its various forms of amusement at an astoundingly low price.

For several weeks workmen have been engaged in making the park beautiful and up-to-date. The course of the creek which pierces the park has been changed so that the large bottom directly east of the pavilion is now in splendid condition and furnishes level ground for tennis courts and the like. New bridges have been built over the creek and the walks have been put in splendid condition.

Among the many amusements offered by the park management will be dancing at the pavilion. On Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening music will be by the Hubbard and Hauke orchestra and a charge of five cents a set will be made. On Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings music will be by the park's splendid Duo-Art band and there will be no charge for dancing.

On Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights there will be a free moving picture show. The program will consist of Pathé News reels, Aesop's fables, Lloyd comedies and feature pictures, to be announced from time to time.

The big feature of the park to which the management has given much attention will be the bathing beach. A very attractive new bath house for the accommodation of ladies and gentlemen has been erected. This house is equipped with shower baths, furnishes dressing rooms for both men and women as well as a check room for the clothing. Bathing suits will be rented at a small fee. There will be a lady attendant at the bath house at all times and two beach men will be on the beach as instructors and lifesavers at all times. On the spacious porch of the bath house a large Radio outfit will be in operation.

In addition to these features there will be tennis courts, croquet grounds and all sorts of games. A large space will be given over to play grounds for the kiddies and this will be equipped with all sorts of playground equipment. Many new benches have been installed and the entire park will be lighted by large arc lights making the grounds as light and safe at night as in the day time. Six large flood lights will light the bathing beach at night.

The park will be under the management of Messrs. Edw. M. Smith and Frank Limerick and Mr. H. O. Eakins will be in direct charge.

The charge will be fifteen cents which includes car fare to the park and admission. Tickets may be purchased from street car conductors. The charge at the gate will be the same as on the car—fifteen cents.

The concessions and amusements will not be operated on Sunday but the grounds will be open to the public and admission will be free.

ERECTING PLATFORM FOR SUNDAY NIGHT SERVICES

Local Protestant Churches Join in Open-air Union Services—First to Be Held Next Sunday Evening at the Court House.

Carpenters began work Thursday morning at erecting a platform on the court house lawn for the use of the ministers and choir during the series of union open-air services to be held by all of the Protestant churches in the city beginning with next Sunday evening.

The platform is being built adjoining the west wall of the County Clerk's office so that this office building will serve as a sounding board for the speaker's voice.

The committee of laymen in charge of the arrangements announced that they hope to have a large chorus choir for each service and that the services will be very interesting and instructive. All of the local Protestant pastors will preach at some time during the series. The first sermon on next Sunday evening will be by Rev. W. S. Peters, pastor of the Third Street M. E. church.

PRESIDENT WILL TALK DIFFERENCES WITH MINESTRIKERS

Hopes For Peace In Mine War as Time Nears for Conference Between President Harding, Operators and Miners.

Washington, June 29. — President Harding has met with initial success in his efforts to bring coal operators and mine union leaders together to pave the way for settlement of the coal strike.

Acceptances were received at the White House today from many operators invited to the peace conference with the President Saturday. All the national and district chiefs of the United Mine Workers plan to attend. Ohio miners will be represented by Lea Hall, state president.

Harding will make a strong appeal that warring factions settle their difficulties.

Miners and operators will be told that if voluntary steps are not taken to end the tieup the government will be forced to take drastic steps to end the dispute.

A compromise plan for negotiations to settle the strike may be submitted by Harding. The nature of the compromise has not been revealed.

The miners want wage agreements on a national scale, while operators insist on district or sectional agreements.

The administration is ready to assure operators that there will be no prosecutions under the Anderson injunction if they will meet with miners to frame a new national wage scale.

CASE GOES BY DEFAULT.

Sheriff Devore and Deputy Rasp were called to Lewisburg at noon Thursday to arrest a colored man at the request of another colored man who charged that the prisoner had stolen a revolver from him. When both men were brought to the city, it was found that there could nothing be proven and the case was dropped and both men released.

Newell returned Thursday morning from Mississippi where he has been on a camping trip and opened Bracken Circuit Court at Brooksville for the trial of the case of Connelley vs. Utter, an alienation suit in which damages in the sum of $10,000 are sought. The case will probably take two or three days for trial.

BIG SESSION OF CITY COURT HELD THURSDAY

Edgar Held to Grand Jury Under $1,000 Bond — Tillery's Wife Goes Clean on Moonshine Charge.

Thursday afternoon's session of City Court was one of the busiest yet held by City Judge Harry C. Curran. The court room was filled with listeners and interest was high.

The first case called was that against William Edgar, charged with cutting and wounding with intent to kill. Through his attorney, Hon. James M. Collins, Edgar waived the examination and Judge Curran fixed his bond at one thousand dollars for appearance before the September grand jury.

Nannis Tillery charged with having a moonshine still in her possession went into trial and upon the evidence, Judge Curran dismissed the case. The woman's husband was fined $150 and sixty days Wednesday on a charge of operating the still.

Julius Tillery was tried on a charge of cutting and wounding with intent to kill. The warrant was issued on complaint of Edgar's wife and the evidence showed that the woman was cut in attempting to separate the two men, both of whom were using knives. Judge Curran reduced the charge to cutting and wounding in sudden passion and held Tillery for grand jury investigation, fixing his bail at $300.

Everett Anderson was on trial at 3:30 on a charge of aiding the escape of a fugitive from justice.

CASUALTY LIST GROWS DAILY AS BATTLES IN DUBLIN STREETS INCREASE.

—Insurgents Cling to Four Courts.

Dublin, June 29.—Desperate fighting between Free State troops and insurgents broke out in Dame street today.

Dame street was crowded when the battle started. Volleys of shots caused a panic among passersby. One was killed and three wounded.

Insurgents, still holding the Mour Courts against repeated assaults, seized additional buildings today.

The Northern Railroad terminal, Moran's hotel and other important structures fell into the hands of the rebels.

More Free State troops were called out to guard banks as street fighting became more violent.

Streets occupied by the insurgents were mined and barricaded. Rebel reinforcements entered the city and established forts in houses behind the Free State lines.

Casualties were estimated today at 15 dead and 40 wounded.

The bombardment of the Four Courts has been continuous since 4 a. m. Wednesday.

The situation is similar to that of the Easter rebellion of 1916. Many who took part in that uprising now are fighting on the side of the government.

At the demand of the defiant Rory O'Connor the rebels massed today for a fight to a finish on the Free State government.

Both factions have huge stores of rifles, ammunition and rations and are prepared to withstand a long battle.

PRESIDENT HARDING ON WAGES.

Mr. Gompers, in his annual address the other day in Cincinnati, bristled a good deal. He condemned the Supreme Court and the President on the assumption that labor is being attacked from these high quarters. He warned his hearers that there is a conspiracy on foot among the powerful "predatory" interests to destroy the voluntary organizations of workers, and to force workingmen back into a form of slavery, driving down wages and breaking the unions over the wheel of capitalistic greed.

That there is "war" on between capital and labor no one doubts. The coal strike now going on, and the threatened rail strike, indicate that industrial peace is not yet in sight. That both sides are more or less blameworthy cannot be doubted, either. The report of the Executive Committee of the federation made public a few days ago is proof that there is bitterness and hostility enough to keep the feud going indefinitely.

As the New York World says, Mr. Gompers made the great mistake of adopting the uncompromising policy of holding on to everything that labor gained during the war emergency, insisting that no matter what other adjustments were necessary, no matter what industry and agriculture lost by the process of liquidation, union labor must refuse to permit wages to be reduced, even though the cost of living fell far below the peak prices of the war and post-war period.

This position was, of course, an impossible one. Wages, under the operation of economic laws, had to give way as the adjustments were made to peace conditions; and while wages, in view of the decrease in commodity prices, have suffered comparatively little, labor, badly led by Mr. Gompers, has accepted every cut made necessary, in order that industry might go at all, suddenly and with the feeling that the whole world is against the man who toils with his hands.

This is a gross misconception. The President, in speaking at Trenton the other day, used the following wise words:

"During the war capital got used to unusual profits and labor became acquainted with unusual wages, which both have been reluctant to relinquish. There must be a readjustment—but it must be a fair readjustment."

"We must say to capital that makes must not go back to where they were before the war. Yet you cannot have employment without reasonable profit for capital."

This is all that any man can reasonably ask or expect. Both sides must relinquish what does not belong to them. Both must be fair. Readjustment cannot take place without a spirit of good will and co-operation unless we are to look forward to the widening of the breach between the employer and the employee. Profiteering on both sides must cease. Prices and wages must come down. Efficiency must be increased and production quickened, and men must go to work together for the common good.

AMERICAN PRESS WANTED.

Sir Ernest Benn, of London, who evidently ought to have Rip Van Winkle as part of his name, arises with the remark that the world needs an international commercial newspaper. Here in America, where we have several decidedly international commercial journals, we cannot but wonder where Sir Ernest has been sleeping for the last few years.

When one studies the specifications set forth by the Londoner, it is easy to see that the requirements have already been met in every important particular. Says he, the paper must be printed in English and edited by an Englishman. Now so far as we are able to observe, the international commercial newspapers printed in the United States are edited either by Englishmen or by men who are under the influence of the direction of Englishmen. If the London Board of Trade or the British prime minister had immediate control of some of our prominent commercial journals, they could scarcely be edited with greater regard for the British viewpoint. If that were all that Sir Ernest Benn desired, he has his wants fulfilled already.

But he also says that "Newspapers hitherto have never succeeded in divesting themselves of a definite national character and bias." Therein he is largely wrong, though perhaps not wholly. Some of our commercial papers printed in the United States have succeeded in divesting themselves of all American character and of all bias in favor of America, but there is much evidence of a bias in favor of the nations that have the goods to ship to us or that want debts cancelled or loans advanced.

There is nothing surprising in the announcement that "Sir Ernest Benn believes English journalists are best suited to fill the role of umpire." The action of British propagandists in the past year or so, not to go any farther back, indicates that his view is quite general in England. We have not only British journalists over here telling us what we should do, but have had various public and private subjects of the British Crown filling the columns of American newspapers with advice to Americans.

Having thus presented the opinions of Sir Ernest as to the needs of an international press and the importance of British editing and British umpiring, we respectfully suggest to him that nine out of ten of the citizens of the United States want here a press that retains the "definite national character" which he deprecates. We want an American press with a bias in favor of "America First." We want editorial pages written by men who have no hyphens in their patriotism. If there is any unifying to be done in the publishing of newspapers in America, we want it done by men who are devoted to the welfare of this, the most unselfish nation on the face of the globe. It is our guess that American newspapers whose first thought is for the welfare of Europe are not as popular as they were when internationalism was at its zenith.

A terrapin has been found in Adams county upon whose shell is cut the date 1822. We are of the opinion that if some one could get the shell of some of the moss backs in this section, they would find a date even earlier than 1822 for some of the ideas found there.

Like that Mt. Oliver railroad, the Maysville-Aberdeen bridge will not die.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, June 23.—(Special Correspondence)—The far seeing statesmanship of Warren G. Harding was remarkably demonstrated in 1916 when, in an address in the Senate, he declared the utter futility of the Democratic scheme for establishing a merchant marine. Opposing the Democratic plan of appropriating money from the Federal treasury to purchase ships of foreign countries at war-time prices, he characterized the measure as "a makeshift, a political consolation prize, a mere excuse for the political claim of constructive accomplishment, which offers Government invasion of the only marine fields in which we now excel to confuse and harass, if not to destroy, and giving no assurance of accomplishment in the transoceanic field when we are anxious to restore our prestige."

After showing that opportunity to engage extensively and successfully in ocean carrying trade had been presented to a nation utterly unprepared to take advantage of the opportunity Senator Harding said:

"But with need magnified the party in power seeks to make amends, not by any normal process, not by logical methods, not by the consistent encouragement of private industry, which has made us what we are but the miracle method of government ownership is invoked, which can accomplish nothing during the abnormal conditions of war and is sure to read our coastwise and Great Lakes achievement in the interference that will come with peace."

"The plan not only adds to the paternalistic socialism which is the menacing development of the present Congress and its directing head (President Wilson), but it is the most indefensible business proposition ever made by a party with an avowed hostility to business success. It is too late to seek shipping facilities to meet war conditions. The making of a merchant marine is an undertaking for the next decade and the next generation of Americans. It is a slow and unimpressive undertaking. No sane business man would enter a prohibitive market to even start to buy for a future generation. That way be the Democratic idea—the administration's conception of business sagacity—but it will not win the plaudits of the American people. A party that makes a profession of assailing high prices ought not multiply wartime rewards. I want to subscribe to an upbuilding process, not a bull market overbuilt with coin from the Federal Treasury."

disastrous outcome has been fulfilled. The government spent not merely the $50,000,000 originally proposed but $1,000,000,000, and at the end had a merchant marine which could not successfully operate in competition with other great maritime nations. For interest alone on the Democratic expenditures for merchant ships, the nation is paying $170,000,000 annually. A minor fraction of the amount annually expended in interest if devoted to the payment of a bonus, would insure the regular and satisfactory operation of a fleet of ships under private ownership and management plying between the ports of the United States and most of the important ports in every part of the world.

"OMAR, THE TENTMAKER" —JAMES YOUNG'S LUCKY SEVENTH

It is good to know that distinguished merit is sometimes recognized and rewarded. A case in point is the engagement by Richard Walter Tully of James Young, to direct the spectacular screen version of "Omar, the Tentmaker," Tully's wonderfully popular Oriental drama produced nearly a decade ago. On the very day that Young turned over to Tully the marvelous finished negative of "The Masquerader," starring Guy Bates Post, which film, by the way, marked the double debut into screenland of Tully as a producer and Post as a star, Tully invited Young to direct "Omar," the second picture in which Post is to appear. Young, after four strenuous months on "The Masquerader," was anxious for a vacation, but Tully insisted he was the one and only director in the world to whom he would intrust the complicated and enthralling scenario of "Omar,"—and so Young capitulated. It was a spontaneous tribute to the genius of the veteran director for one of America's greatest dramatists and theatrical magnates.

And Jimmy Young, as he is familiarly known, insists that "Omar" will be his "lucky seventh." Tully's screen productions are distributed by Associated First National Pictures, Inc.,—strictly a distributing and not a producing organization—and it so happens that "Omar, the Tentmaker" will be the seventh picture directed by Young for First National distribution. In fact, Young directed the very first release of that organization, "On Trial," a picture based on the well-known play of the same name. Not only did he direct, but he wrote the screen adaptation, played the important heavy part and cut and titled the negative unassisted. "On Trial" was indeed a James Young production, and James Young is often referred to as "The First National Director."

Young has good reasons to believe that "Omar, the Tentmaker" will be his "lucky seventh," and that the picture will be his supreme masterpiece. Tully's scenario is a glowing transcript of his stage play,—an outline packed with color, with startling situations, unexpected twists, and the pervading atmosphere of the Orient. And again Young will be privileged to direct Guy Bates Post, whose masterful performance in "The Masquerader" is bound to make screen history, and whose supreme characterization of the lovable Persian poet is too recent stage history to allow of any doubts as to the magnificence of his film performance that is now to follow.

GRAZING LEGUMES POPULAR FOR IMPROVEMENT OF SOIL.

Lexington, Ky. — Grazing legume crops, such as clover and cowpeas, instead of harvesting them for hay is becoming more popular with farmers who wish to build up their soils, according to R. E. Stephenson, soils and crops specialist at the College of Agriculture. Crops of this kind are maturing in the state at the present time, and many farmers are planning to give this method of soil improvement a trial, he added.

Grazing such crops gives an added advantage in soil improvement in that it gives a return from the land and at the same time improves it. On the other hand, when the crop is used for hay, two-thirds of the organic matter is destroyed and the valuable part of the crop for humus making is reduced.

The first crop of clover in Kentucky is now ready for hay but indications are that not many farmers will allow the crop to remain on the land to fertilize the soil. However, in a good many cases, the second growth will be pastured and then left for the benefit of the soil. A few farmers have started that the second crop can be marketed as profitably in this way as it can when cut for seed or hay. Another advantage of grazing is the fact that a good supply of clover seed is left in the soil thus making it easier to get a new stand for the crop. Cowpeas and soybeans also will be ready for harvest in a short time and both of these are well adapted to grazing.

The poorer the soil, the greater are the benefits from grazing. When a legume is grazed, at least 75 per cent. of the fertility contained in the crop passed through the animals and goes back to the land. In addition, grazing leaves a residue which is valuable for soil improvement.

This method of handling legume crops is doubly important in Kentucky in view of the fact that the limiting factor in crop production on many poor soils is a lack of nitrogen. In order to supply this element of soil fertility economically, legumes must be grown and turned under or the manure made from them returned to the land. When land is extremely poor it may be advisable to plow under the entire legume crop without grazing. A number of farmers have reported good results from this practice.

TODD JERSEY OWNERS WILL BOOST DAIRY IMPROVEMENT.

Lexington, Ky. — Following the recent organization of the Todd County Jersey Breeders' Association with ten charter members interested farmers and dairymen in that section of the state have set about to carry out a definite program for the improvement of their herds, according to E. M. Prewitt, dairy extension specialist of the College of Agriculture.

Their program includes the pledging of a carload of Jerseys to be sent to the coming State Fair increased support for boys' and girls' dairy club, the introduction of more purebred sires and the elimination of the scrubs and grades, increased advertising and the testing of more cows for Register of Merit classification. This last point is to be given special attention in view of the fact that Todd and Christian county dairymen already have sold more than $20,000 worth of stock as the result of testing which they have done under direction of the college.

W. S. Walter, Trenton, is president of the new association while Norton Barth, also of Trenton, is secretary.

ALFALFA SHOULD HAVE PLACE ON MORE FARMS.

Lexington, Ky. — Despite the fact that alfalfa has a limited distribution in Kentucky, there is a place for the crop on many farms of the state, not as a major field crop but as a crop for a small area of good land, crop specialists at the College of Agriculture say. It is a legume best suited to rich soils that contain plenty of lime but most farms have from two to five acres that could be prepared rather easily for growing it. Fall seeding is more satisfactory in Kentucky in view of the fact that spring seedings are trouble with weeds and grasses.

Only two counties in Kentucky, Pendleton and Campbell, have a large area of alfalfa, these two growing half the acreage found in the state or nearly 28,000 acres, according to the 1920 census. The five leading alfalfa counties grow nearly four-fifths of all that is found in the state. These facts emphasize the limited distribution of the crop.

Sweet clover and limestone prepare the way for the successful growing of alfalfa. Both Pendleton and Campbell counties have limestone soils while sweet clover has been extensively grown in both of them, especially Pendleton. Much of it grew wild at first, these plants seedling and spreading over a larger area each year. The sweet clover inoculated the soil and thus prepared it for alfalfa.

There is no hay that is superior to that made from good alfalfa, the specialists claim. It is an excellent feed for stimulating the milk and butterfat production of dairy cows and also make a good feed for growing stock or for animals that are being put into good condition for showing them.

Since three or four crops can be cut in a season from good land, a few acres will furnish a considerable supply of feed. Any farmer who times his soil heavily and seeds alfalfa on a few acres of his best land can expect good results from the crop. Good drainage, stable manure, phosphate fertilizers and careful preparation of the seed bed also increase the chances for a good stand.

COLORED WOMEN GATHER FOR BIG CONVENTION

More Than Two Hundred Delegates to Attend Annual Meeting of Missionary Society of Colored Church.

Delegates began arriving Wednesday to attend the annual convention of the Woman's Missionary branch of the Methodist Episcopal church which will be in session this week at Scott's M. E. church. These delegates represent all of the colored Methodist churches in this conference and keen interest is taken by the local colored people in an effort to entertain them highly.

Some of the most prominent colored leaders in Kentucky and Ohio will be in attendance and make addresses during the sessions.

While the sessions of the conference will be held at the Scott's M. E. church the Maysville Board of Education has granted the local colored people the use of the Colored High School building during the sessions.

TAX BOARD MUST MEET TAX RAISE.

Frankfort, Ky., June 28.—Appeal to the courts on the facts is the only alternative of counties that decline to comply with orders of the State Tax Commission to bring their assessments up to totals fixed by the commission.

The Court of Appeals today, in an opinion by Judge Sampson in the case of Fayette county against the State Tax Commission, held that the commission may not reassess the county, but the County Board of Supervisors must obey the commission's orders unless the Fiscal Court appeals. This was not done by Fayette county in time, and the Board of Supervisors must raise farm lands $300,000, town lots $3,000,000 and tangible personal property $6,500,000. The State Tax Commission may by mandamus compel the board to act, or, if it is not in session, may by the same process compel the County Judge to reconvene the board.

STANDARD FOR COUNTY SCHOOL HEADS RAISED

In the Future Applicants for County School Superintendent Must Have Diploma and Be Fully Qualified.

Frankfort, Ky., June 28.—Higher standards in scholarship, administration and supervision for county school superintendents were adopted today at a meeting of the State Board of Education. The standards become effective July 1 after which all applicants for a county superintendent's certificate must be 24 years old and must have the following scholarship requirements:

From the State Board of Examiners a state diploma or a state certificate which will not expire during their proposed term of office or a diploma granting the degree of bachelor of arts in education from the university or from a standard approved college, or an advanced certificate issued by the University or Kentucky or by a state normal school or by a standard approved institution.

JUDGE GARY TO MAKE OHIO RIVER INSPECTION.

Impetus to the early completion of the canalization of the Ohio River is expected to be given today by an inspection of the river improvements between Steubenville, Ohio, and Pittsburgh by prominent steel men of the country, who are interested in the development of water transportation.

Captain Oscar F. Barrett, President of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, left yesterday to join the steel men in the inspection. Headed by Judge E. T. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, the steel men will leave Pittsburgh this morning and proceed by rail to Steubenville, where they will board a new boat of the steel company and proceed up the river to Pittsburgh.

According to Captain Barrett there is a growing interest among the steel men in the early completion of the canalization of the Ohio River, and the inspection of the locks and dams already completed is expected to have a bearing on the work still to be done.

WARSHIPS MAY BE SENT BY U. S. TOMEXICANWATERS

Navy Held in Readiness To Go Into Mexican Waters To Demand Release of American Citizens Held There.

Washington, June 29.—Administration officials tonight were awaiting with obvious impatience further advice from Charge d' Affaires Summerlin at Mexico City and Consul Shaw at Tampico, concerning the fate of the forty American citizens seized by Mexican bandits Sunday morning and held for ransom along with the Aguada Camp property of the Cortez Oil Company.

The original dispatch of Consul Shaw was filed more than forty-eight hours ago, and not a word has been heard from him since. The forty-eight-hour time limit within which Gorgorabe the bandit leader, demanded payment of 15,000 pesos ransom, expired yesterday morning.

So far as Washington is officially advised, the forty men may have been massacred and the property destroyed. Not a syllable of information has been received from any source.

It is assumed here that the Mexican authorities have clapped on a censorship and are applying it to the American Charge d' Affaires and Consul Shaw. The result is that the situation is greatly aggravated.

Unless definite information that the Americans are safe is received very soon, President Harding may not await assurance from Mexico City that all possible steps have been taken to secure the release of our citizens and the company's property, before rushing naval vessels to Tampico.

The commanders of all naval vessels are fully advised concerning all that is known of the situation up to date and those within easy steaming distance of Tampico are prepared to sail on a moment's notice.

TRADING STAMP LAW TAKEN TO HIGH COURT

Newport merchants may be prohibited from issuing trading stamps through proceeding in the State Court of Appeals, according to a letter received Wednesday by Lawrence J. Diskin, Commonwealth Attorney, from Charles H. Morris, former Attorney General.

Mr. Morris advises that he has entered proceeding in the Court of Appeals to test the validity of a law prohibiting the issuing of trading stamps by merchants.

If the law is held constitutional, Mr. Diskin said, investigations will be made and any violators found will be prosecuted.

RAIL MEN START WALK OUT.

Chicago, June 29.—Scores of maintenance of way employees in the west Chicago yards were reported to be quitting their jobs today, following a strike call issued to 400,000 shop craftsmen last night.

The shop workers were ordered to walk out at 10 a. m. Saturday. Although the maintenance of way organization is voting overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, no strike call has been issued by that union.

As hope of preventing the strike faded, railroads took steps to prevent tieup of traffic. Railroad executives here said traffic would not be hampered seriously for some time.

Miss Catherine Daly and Mr. Herbert Williams were quietly married at the parsonage of St. Patrick's church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Father P. M. Jones. Miss Marion Daly, sister of the bride, and Mr. James Glenn were the attendants. The bride is a very popular young lady who counts her friends by the score while the groom is a local garage man well known and liked by a very large circle of friends.

After the marriage, the happy young couple left for a motor tour through Central Kentucky and returning will make their home in this city. Friends extend heartiest good wishes.

BOOSTING FAIR AT MT. STERLING.

The Mt. Sterling Gazette says: Messrs. J. Barbour Russell and A. L. Glascock, two of the best fellows in the 'world, were in our city Tuesday boosting the Maysville Boys' Band, which will furnish the music at the Montgomery County Fair in July. The Maysville Boys' Band is considered one of the real musical organizations in the country, and it will afford our people much pleasure to hear them. Messrs. Russell and Glascock are confident that the appearance of the "Kentucky Cardinals" at the Fair will result in bringing thousands of people to Mt. Sterling who have never yet attended the Fair. Here's hoping that they are correct.

MONTHS OF SUFFERING

How a Baltimore Girl Recovered Her Health

Baltimore, Maryland.—"For several months I suffered with severe backache and general weakness. I could not sleep comfortably at night for pains in my back. I found your book at home one day and after reading it began at once to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very good results and some of my girl friends are taking it now. You may use this letter to help other girls, as the letters in your book helped me." ROSE WADSWORTH, 3018 Roseland Place, Baltimore, Md.

That is the thought so often expressed in letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. These women know what they have suffered, they describe their symptoms and state how they were finally made well. Just plain statements, but they want other women to be helped.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine made from medicinal roots and herbs, and without drugs, it relieves the sickness women so often have, which is indicated by backache, weak feelings, nervousness, and no ambition to get anything done or to go anywhere. It has helped many women. Why not try it?
